*Tulsa Public Schools (TPS) Policy 2601 defines the school district’s dress code as stated:

“Individual schools, via their respective school shared decision-making councils or school improvement committees may, upon approval by the principal, impose more strict dress code requirements than those set forth herein. However, all schools must meet the standards set forth in this policy as the minimum requirement. Schools shall publish any and all additional requirements/expectations relative to student dress. Students and their parents/guardians have the responsibility to be aware of any school specific dress codes and to conform to those requirements after the school has provided reasonable notice.”

distraction is defined as “The act of drawing away the attention” from The American Heritage Student Dictionary, 1998; Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston, MA.
